But enough of that.
I must prepare for Ragnarok. The war to end all wars. The cock will crow, the horn will blow and the world will stop. I will gather my posse and march them to atrocity.

History will repeat itself over and over, like Ragnarok, Waterloo, Normandie, and even in the streets its the same old game, but its gonna change, and some day, you will see. But until that time you will have to deal with me. (As God of War) I am satin, I am your destiny!

Act 1 Scene 3 - The Giants, Odin and Loko

Giants

Its Odin!

I see him!

Where?

Over there.

Cut him off.

Don't let him escape.

He's a dead man.

Its been a long time coming.

Vengeance is ours.

You're a dead man, Odin.

You'll beg for mercy.

The wrath of our dead brother is upon you.

Now you die.

You did it! You did it!

You killed our brother in cold blood.

You and your soldiers

You were not strong enough to do it by yourself.

Murderer.

Pain awaits you. You will be tortured.

Fire awaits you. You won't survive.

Ice awaits you. An eye for an eye.

Ashes await your body. You're gonna die.

Odin

(as God of War)

It is you, who teams with demons and you, who refuses to change.

You, who builds your fortress walls, and you, who runs untamed.

You want to take away the sun and rob us of the seasons, and then you take the moon leaving darkness and eternal freezing.

Odin duets with Giants and then with Loko

Giants

This is our land.

We want it back.

Keep your posse out of our way.

We will take what is ours.

You are a murderer, a liar, killer, murderer.

Odin

Time is changing that.

You can never go back.

Don't you threaten me.

I am immortal.

You can never defeat me never, never.

Loko

Giants, back off. Giants stop.

Giants, hold the line. Giants, stay.

As your leader I order you stay.
You will get your chance, I promise.

Loko to Odin

And as for you, there was a time, no sunshine, ice everywhere.
We lived in harmony then you brought fire to melt our ice.
You brought killing and violence to our life.
We don't need your forward change,
we want our walls, we want our ice.
The cold times.
You have no strength of your own.

You can't out-wrestle any Giant by yourself.
You are nothing without your posse.
You will cause no more pain.
You will not take our land.

Giants, back off!
Giants, go home!
Silence!
I don't want to hear your voice.
You will pay, not today.
You will pay at Ragnarok.

Now go back home.
You get out of here.
Wait for the cock to crow.
That will be the day you will pay.
The ice is coming and we'll be home.
And you will meet your glorious pyre.
So go, and wait for the cold. Ain't no sunshine once you're gone.

Act 1 Scene 4 - Odin, Loki and Berserks

Loki

It's been a while, I'm glad to be back in your world again
I've watched you from afar, your greatness has grown.

But first, we must make a pact, to let me help you seal your fate.

You need my body, my mind, and my evil plan.

Odin

You're in the presence of a God.
A God who sees the future. A God who makes the future.

The world is growing warmer. The ice is melting.
Your land is thawing. Your growing older.
It will be brains, not muscle that will melt your dreams.

I tell y_____

Odin

(as God of War)

Let's go over there, I want you.

Let's go. There's so much I want to do with you.

What kind of pact? I need you as my woman, not my warrior.

5

My Odin, God of Knowledge, let me share my thoughts with you.

Okay, let me hear your plan.

You give me control of all the aimless souls, the Strays, who do what they're told, and I will train them to be bold with blind devotion to Odin.

At Ragnarok the Strays will flank The Giants on both sides, so when you meet The Giants on the plain the Strays will close off The Giants on the right, front and rear, and we will have The Giants in a box, the box of death my dear.

So plant a kiss on my lips to seal your fate. I will question authority. War is the greatest affair. I am prepared for them. They will feast on war for all their needs. Yes, I wouldn't miss your greatest moment.

I have some questions for you. What do you know of war? How will you train the Strays? How will you arm them, feed them? Will you be by my side at Ragnarok?

Act 1 Scene 5 - Baldar & Frigg (Frigg with mistletoe in her hair)

Frigg
Welcome home, come to your Mother, give me a great big hug. Watch your hand, do not forget, you cannot touch my mistletoe.

Baldar

Its good to see you Mom, I have been away for so many days.

I bet you wowed all the girls. Did you protect your self?

Mother, Mother, stop talking foolish I'm an adult you know.

You've grown up to be such a handsome lad; yes you have.

Baldar you are my life, and I must protect you.

Mother, a new day is dawning. I have a gift to give.

I have made a deal with the evils, so that almost nothing can hurt you.

They have all agreed not to hurt you, for eternity.

And you are free to be what you want to be.

I've been blessed with the gift of seeing the future.

And I clearly see you as a God of goodness.

A God, who's invincible and can never die.

A God who is good and can always bring peace and joy.

You have a special gift, and it will help you change the world.

Mother, I know what you mean. A new day is dawning.

I can see the ways of the old have grown weary. I can see that violence is not the only way to do things. There is a new way to be, and it requires mind over matter. People everywhere will resist, but you can't stop change. Even Odin must learn. He adapt and change. The whole world must change. This is my calling. I know it in my heart. I do have a gift, of seeing things differently.

I will help you my Baldar, help you to make a change.
But you must promise to be wary of evil. Even though we have a pact, there's still the mistletoe. Trust no one. I am the only one you can trust. Not even your Father, who gave birth to your gift.

What do you mean, Father gave birth to my gift?

Your Father knows that the pen is mightier than the sword. So you must free him to think what's in his heart. Baldar, you're the first to think, to reason, to feel, to have honor. Odin knows in his heart. He knows because you come from him. He's the God of Knowledge, it comes from him. He is also the God of War who need to be free. Free to seek calm ways to solve problems. And to do this, he must completely change his ways. And as our God and leader, he needs to take the lead. So the key to a better world is Odin, your Father. So go show him the way my beautiful Baldar.

I will, I will help him my dear Mother

Teach us all how to reason, and the meaning of honor. But always be aware of those who don't understand you.

I will. I will help my dear Father.

I will make a difference

I will be a tall beacon.

Baldar, be careful, remember that I love you. My calling has made me strong, I am not afraid.

Act 1 Scene 8 - Loko, The Giants & the Ravens

Loko

My supreme Giants, gather near.

As you know, the old days, the cold days are returning to us.

Once we defeat and kill Odin at Ragnarok, the chill will begin.

I have made sure of our victory.

Every detail is in place.

You see, I have personally befriended Odin, and he doesn't even know it.

Yes, he thinks that I am his lover.

I change my body and personality to become Loki. a female.

Odin has the hots for Loki.

Odin has agreed to turn over all his weakened souls, the Strays, to Loki. She will train them for battle.

He thinks they will be trained to fight for him.

But its all a plot, for you see, at the Battle of Ragnarok, Loki will have trained all the Strays to attack Odin's army, and together, with our Giant might, we will crush Odin.

and his army. And they'll be gone, forever. And the cold, dark days will be ours, forever.

Act 1 Scene 9 - Odin, Baldar & The Ravens

Baldar

Odin, my Father, I know you. And you know in your heart you must change your ways in order to show us a better world. A kinder, gentler world where the pen is mightier than the sword. Where knowledge and thought will crush violent ways.

Odin

Balsar, my son, You will someday follow in my footsteps. You are a God and you will someday rule the world. But I must toughen you to meet the cruelties in the world. And together, we must work to help your Mother and her obsessions.

Baldar

Father, I know you're also the God of Knowledge and you know in your heart that I am right. There will be a day when everyone can practice honor, reason, and peace - The birth of Civility! We'll be changed forever.

Old Woman, speaking to Frigg:

These kids, they're all up to no good.
Too lazy to do anything. They're all that way.
Oh yes they are.

Frigg:
I know one who is not that way.

Old Woman
And who might that be?

Frigg:
My son. Balder.

Old Woman
Baldar, what a strange name.

Frigg:
He's a wonderful boy.
He's big, strong, handsome -
He's a God.

Old Woman:
And you're his proud mother,
Yeah, right!

Frigg:
Baldar is special.

Old Woman:
Sure he is..

Frigg:
He is!
He is really a God.
He's the son of Odin.
And he brings thought, honor, and reasoning.
Things we don't have today.
He can change the world.... but

Old Woman:
But what?

9

Frigg:
He keeps having nightmares,
that he's going to die.
But that cannot happen,
because I have arranged his protection.
No one can hurt him...no one.....except

Old Woman:
Except who....? What....? Ah,
now I get it. Something can hurt him.

Frigg:
Yes!

Old Woman:
Ah, is it arsenic?

Frigg:
No!

Old Woman:

Frigg:
No

Frigg:

Old Woman:

Frigg:
No!

Old Woman:
Mistletoe?

Frigg:
Yes....! Yes!..... I have made a pact with all objects, except mistletoe - to allow Baldar to live in peace for eternity.

Old Woman:
So your big, strong, handsome Baldar can be hurt, by mistletoe?

Frigg:
It could kill him!....

Mistletoe, the symbol of life can kill my boy.
And what is so odd, is that I wear mistletoe in my hair, always have. But nothing can hurt my boy, Baldar. I must make a pact with mistletoe, then nothing can harm him...ever.

Old Woman:
Hmm?????
